Most people may never imagine the possibilities...
SciFi, SciFact and some people with imagination have their own ideas...
This flies best with epic music, explosions, crusades, patriot missions and epic battles...

For the pilot that flies by the seat of the pants,
for those who jump in with both feet,
for those who stand tall and strong with true values,
undaunted courage to do the right thing, the only thing...
conquest and victory...there is only one future for the brave, there is only a life with something impossible to live without.

What if the one you love is the one you get?
What if the world you save is your own?
What if it is you that saves your family, friends and community?
What if the life you live, is on your own terms, and not at the whim of others?
What if today is the day you made a decision and took decisive confident action?
